2. Pilot/learning activity with the first digital tool

The first version of the digital simulator is ready for testing by the end of June 2022. With this tool, the students will have autonomy but also the necessity of studying the materials provided by the teacher into the platform to complete the fields of each phase of the project. The student can open more than one project at a time and make comparisons of several elements during the process. You have the opportunity to learn using practical cases on crowdfunding, business angels, bootstrapping, venture capital, preseed, incubators, initial public offering and EU funds. After completion of one practical case, the students will receive a certificate.
